Search Mississippi for 10 Bodies After Boat Crash

13 SAVED AS OIL BARGES WRECK FERRY

Craft With 25 Aboard Turns Over After Collision Near Tennessee Shore.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. — (AP)—The muddy Mississippi river was searched today for the bodies of at least ten persons, possibly more, who were believed to have perished in the collision of a ferry boat and two oil laden barges near here.

Thirteen other occupants of the ferry were saved after the flat boat overturned, dumping at least five vehicles and their passengers into the waters.

The accident occurred at 9:20 p. m. last night 50 yards from the Missouri shore as the ferry neared completion of its crossing from the Tennessee side.

One was known dead. Jerry Vickers, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Vickers, jr., of Caruthersville died after he was brought to shore.

A brother, Larry, 6, is among the ten missing. His parents were saved.

Pilot Saved.

No Ohioans were among the missing.

The pilot of the ferry, Charles E. Hendrix, who was saved when he was tossed on a barge in the crash, was quoted as estimating that there were between 20 and 25 persons in the five or six cars on the flat boat.

Other estimates ran as high as 30. One survivor said the ferry carried four automobiles and one pickup truck.

The ferry was demolished and sunk by the impact of the two oil barges, linked together and pushed by two tugs in a single train. The ferry overturned and floated down the river.

Tries To Save Woman.

Jerry Vickers died after he was brought to shore by his mother.

Aaron House, Ridgely, Tenn., still shaken from his experience, said he and two women and another man with him all were thrown into the water in a closed car.

He said he kicked open the window of the car and tried to pull his woman companion with him but that her clothing caught on the broken glass and she was lost.

Some of the survivors said they saw blinker light signals and heard whistles just before the crash.

THREE KILLED

40 Injured as Bus Plunges From Texas Bridge.

VERNON, Tex — (UP) — Three persons were killed and at least 40 were injured—eight perhaps fatally—today when an eastbound Continental Trailways bus plunged through a bridge railing and fell 20 feet into the nearly-dry Pease river three miles west of Vernon.

Dead in the pre-dawn crash were Cynthia Ann Clark, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Clark of Amarillo, Tex.; Mrs. Mary Wolfenberger, 70, of Saint Jo, Tex., and a Mrs. Green, whose address was not learned by hospital officials.

Blast Fails To Follow Threat

NEW YORK—(AP)—Radio cars, detectives and the police bomb squad were sent to the building at 25 Broadway, in which the British consulate has offices, this morning on reports the building would be bombed.

Police said they were advised that a telephone call had been made to the building by a person who said: "Clear out. Your building is going to be bombed in 17 minutes."

Forty-three minutes after the call was received there had been no explosion.

SHOUT PROVES FATAL

HAMILTON —(AP)— Frederick Garland, 26, shut off the engine of a trainer-type airplane he was flying while he shouted to a relative on the ground at nearby Overpeck yesterday. The plane stalled, plunged 200 feet to the ground and Garland was injured fatally.

Chinese Reds Attack Train, Fight Marines

Communists, U. S. Forces Reported In Clash In North China.

PEIPING — (UP) — A Communist force was reported tonight to have attacked a train bringing 100 U. S. Marines from Tientsin to Peiping and in the ensuing battle both American and Communist casualties were inflicted.

The Americans were said to have suffered more casualties than the Communists.

The Communist attack was regarded as of major political significance in view of the high tension now prevailing in North China

Official confirmation of the battle could not be obtained tonight because only military priority telephone calls were being accepted from Peiping to Tientsin.

However, there were some indications the battle might still be in progress.

NATIONALIST TROOPS RUSH TO SCENE

Chinese Nationalist troops were rushing to the scene of the attack.

The Chinese Communists were said to have ambushed the train from strategic positions on both sides of the railroad track.

Chinese Nationalist quarters said the Marines were riding in several coaches in a regular passenger train when it was halted by a volley of shots which wounded both Marines and Chinese passengers.

The Marines were then said to have returned the fire and undertaken the defense of the train. The size of the attacking force was described as "surprisingly large" to have infiltrated to the main rail line.

It was the first report of any large-scale clash between U. S. Marines and Chinese Communists. However, it was pointed out that the Communists might not have been aware of the presence of the Marines on the train when they opened fire.

ORDERS SALE OF PHONE PROPERTY

Court Ruling Puts Lucas Firm on Block; Service Over Lines Threatened.

Approximately 170 telephone subscribers in the Lucas area were threatened with loss of service today following a common pleas court order to sell the property of the old Monroe telephone company.

The court ordered the company sold and all claims against it paid to the limit of funds obtained from the sale.

The order grew out of action in which R. O. Darling asked to be relieved of his duties as receiver. The court was asked to determine claims against the firm that the property be sold to pay the indebtedness against it and to provide a clear title to it.

Attorney Henry P. Huston said that as it stands now there is a discrepancy in the title since the sale of the company from the Monroe company to George Hubler was never approved by the Public Utilities Commission.

Hubler disappeared last fall and his present address is not known, this morning's meeting revealed.

Previous to Hubler's disappearance Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield went on a $1,000 note for Hubler.

On the stand this morning Darling revealed that Bromfield had advanced $534 78 to keep the company operating.

At one time Bromfield paid the

EXPECT OPA TO INCREASE NEW CAR CEILINGS

Price Control Spokesmen Hint Prices May Go Up $100; Food Schedules Due.

The rejuvenated OPA is expected to boost the ceiling price on new cars this week—probably $100 or more—and set new ceilings on fresh fruits and vegetables and groceries by next Monday, news dispatches said today.

The OPA office hinted that meat, poultry, eggs, milk, cheese and butter, taken off the control lists by congress on June 30, might be put back under price regulation on or shortly after Aug. 21.

Another price control spokesman predicted today that the price of cotton and wool clothing would reach "unprecedented heights" by fall.

Threaten 'Strike.'

Meanwhile, labor organizations threatened buyers' strikes throughout the west and middle west today, as a spokesman for the Confederated Unions of America announced that any sizeable price increases would necessitate widespread "cost of living bonuses" to labor. The CUA is an organization of independent unions.

The majority of Mansfield new car dealers said today that they had not raised their prices following the expiration of OPA on June 30, and that any increase in the cost "would depend on OPA."

Dealers said that shipments of new cars were still very slow. One dealer said that during the past two weeks his shipments have slowed up.

E. W. Sheller, chief clerk at the War Price and Ration Board in Mansfield, said that ceilings on both new and used cars are the same as on June 30. He added that numerous complaints had been received at the office of dealers "holding cars in expectation that prices will go higher."

Sheller said he didn't know of a factory which doesn't have a set price on new cars now."

Meanwhile, Judge H. H. Schettler said today that he is still holding up hearings on already-filed eviction cases until he can confer with OPA officials here.

The judge has halted eviction proceedings until the new OPA law can be clarified to determine how it applies to cases which were filed during the OPA "holiday."

U. S., BRITAIN REACH ACCORD

Agree to Unify Occupation Zones in Germany, Russia Expected to Balk.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The state department announced today Britain has accepted "in principle" this government's proposal to unify occupation zones in Germany.

The department's announcement reiterated the hope that Russia and France likewise will accept.

Despite this hope, the expectation among diplomats here is that the United States and Britain at once will work out details for unifying their own zones economically, that France probably will join promptly and that Russia will refuse to cooperate.

The announcement which may mark a step in the hardening of the great power split in Germany came as Secretary of State Byrnes met with Prime Minister Atlee and Foreign Ministers Molotov and Bidault in the first day of the Paris peace conference.

Gertrude Stein Lies In State

PARIS—(AP)—The body of the American writer Gertrude Stein lay today in the American Procathedral church in Paris while arrangements were discussed for her funeral.

Miss Stein, whose strange style of writing produced such phrases as "a rose is a rose is a rose" and bewildered her wide following of readers, died Saturday night in the Paris suburb of Neuilly.

Miss Stein, 72, recently underwent an operation and had been in a hospital for ten days.

Among those present were (center, l. to r. around table): an unidentified woman; Henry M. Garsson; Rep. Abolish War Plague, French Chief Pleads

President Bidault Asks 21-Nation Conference to Seek Reasonable Peace Solutions.

PARIS — (AP) — The 21-nation peace conference, convened formally in Luxembourg palace more than a year after the end of the second World war in Europe, was summoned by President Georges Bidault of France today to abolish "the plague of war."

Addressing the 1,500 delegates of the victorious Allies on behalf of the host nation, Bidault pleaded:

"The long suffering peoples of the world today look to you. If we cannot get complete peace solutions, I hope that at least we will get reasonable ones."

In an apparent reference to the United States and Russia, Bidault said that whatever blame could be attached to the failure to keep the peace after the first World war, a "funda-

11 NEW BABIES GIVE HOSPITAL BUSY TIME

Mansfield Municipal airport had a busy day yesterday with the all-Ohio air tour, but General hospital was every bit as busy as the stork swooped down on the hospital with a record load of newcomers.

Hospital attendants reported today that 11 babies were born between midnight Saturday and this morning, the greatest number reported in a similar period this year.

Six girls and five boys were born to area residents yesterday and today. They were: daughters to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, Mansfield, R. D. 6; Mr and Mrs. Bernard Ashbaugh, Mt. Gilead, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brucato, 282½ North Main street, Mr. and Mrs. George Karkalik, 468 Howard street; Mr and Mrs Leonard Burkepile, Mansfield, R. D. 6; and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell McCoy, 356 Fairlawn avenue.

Sons were born to Mr and Mrs Earl Coe, 652 Johns avenue; Mr. and Mrs Ethan Allen, Mansfield, R. D 2; Mr and Mrs. Charles Bowman, 333 Second avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Talbott, 768 Maple street; and Mr. and Mrs. George Stein, Butler.

This You Gotta See To Believe

WASHINGTON — (INS) — This you gotta see.

Washington hotels recently jammed to the broom closets today issued a piteous plea for customers.

In fact the greater national capital committee of the Washington Board of Trade admitted last week there were 3,000 —count 'em, 3,000 — empty hotel rooms in the capital.

Business is so bad, in fact, that capital business men stumped up $72,000 for the express purpose of attracting tourists and conventions to make the town look lived in.

PILOTS PRAISE NEW AIRPORT ON VISIT TO CITY

29 Fliers in All-Ohio Air Tour Stop in Mansfield, Greeted By Queens.

Participants in the fifth all-Ohio air tour sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce concluded their weekend air jaunt yesterday at Mansfield Municipal airport with praise for the new $2,000,000 field and facilities.

George Usher, president of the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce praised the port facilities and thanked Mansfield Jaycees for their co-operation with the Cleveland Chamber for stimulating such interest and enthusiasm in private flying.

Mansfield Queen Susan Lake and attendants Patricia Bancroft, Barbara Chatlain and Jane Senert, together with Shelby Queen Jean Roth, met the 29 plane caravan in Wooster and escorted the group to Mansfield in a plane piloted by J. R. "Bud" Harrington, manager of the Mansfield port.

At the public reception staged by the Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce, an estimated 5,000 persons watched David Ott introduce the queens, including Cleveland's sesquicentennial queen, Mary Dublin, and present them with flowers.

John Finefrock, jr, president of the Mansfield Jaycees, officially welcomed the air tourists to the city in the absence of Mayor Vaughn and his representative.

Following the presentation of Cleveland's sesqui queen, pilots and passengers of the visiting planes were introduced to the crowd and then taken to the Sky club where an informal reception was held.

Although 32 planes left Cleveland Friday for the week-end trip, three dropped out en route because their owners were called back for business reasons.

Frank Kissling, pilot of a Piper cub, and his passenger, George Redella of Cleveland, strayed off their course and set down on the 18th fairway of an East Liverpool golf course yesterday, and would have remained for a game if they had been able to borrow clubs, but Kissling said they changed

You Can Put Your Sweater Away Again

Mansfielders who had donned sweaters over the "cool" weekend were back in shirt sleeves today as temperatures headed toward the uncomfortable figures again

The OPS Longview station reported just before noon today that the mercury had climbed to 84 degrees, one point higher than the official high at Hayesville yesterday.

Meanwhile, weather bureau forecasters said there probably will be a gradual increase in humidity to the point where Ohioans may become somewhat uncomfortable by Wednesday. Only a few widely scattered showers are expected to interfere with the slow rise of the mercury into the 90's by Wednesday.

OUTPUT CURTAILED

WARREN—(AP)—L. C. Mitchell, traffic manager of the Ohio Corrugating company here, said today operations at his plant had been curtailed over the week-end because of lack of box cars to ship finished products.

BOTH HANDS IN PUBLIC TROUGH

Warren Charges Officials Got Expenses From Both War Firms, Government.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren told senate investigators that "it looked as if everybody and his brother were out to get the government during the lush war years."

Warren made this statement to the senate war investigating committee At the same time, he appealed for greater powers for the general accounting office as "the last bulwark for the protection of taxpayers of this country against unbridled and illegal expenditures of public funds."

Some high officials of government, he said, accepted entertainment, including cocktail parties, hotel bills and even travel from contractors" while at the same time drawing travel expense and per diem (daily allowance) from the government."

This practice, he added, was "the rule rather than the exception."

Warren was called before the committee, which has been investigating war profits of a midwestern munitions combine, to give his advice on possible new anti-profits legislation.

Auto Workers Seek Uniform Contracts

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The CIO-United Automobile Workers will work for uniform contracts in the future. 300 delegates to a two-day conference in Cleveland decided yesterday.

The delegates, representing locals in Cleveland, Lorain, Medina, Akron and Barberton, also called upon the OPA to hold the line on prices.

CONFESSION WILL TELL OF NIGHT PROWLS

Deliberately Set Out to Rob and Wound, 'Unimpeachable Source' Declares.

BULLETIN

CHICAGO — (AP) — The jail cell guard over William Heirens was intensified today after Sheriff Michael Mulcahy reported finding of a note indicating the 17-year-old student was contemplating suicide. The sheriff said a note addressed to "Dear Mom and Pop" had been found in a regular inspection of county jail cells. It was hidden in a mattress.

By JACK VINCENT

CHICAGO — (INS) — William Heirens, 17-year-old college boy indicted 31 times for a series of murders, burglaries and assaults, will admit new and even more revolting crimes when he dictates his full confession tomorrow.

That information was obtained from an unimpeachable source today.

The confession, it was reported, not only will detail the crimes of which Heirens was accused in grand jury indictments but tell of offenses of which police have not suspected him.

Heirens' confession, to be made to State's Attorney William Tuohy tomorrow if the state agrees not to demand the death penalty, will be "a most amazing document in the history of crime," it was said.

The young University of Chicago student will relate, it was reported, how he armed himself with gun and knife more than 50 times in recent months and deliberately set out to prowl and rob to satisfy a sadistic urge to inflict injury on others.

* * *

Accidents Save Many.

Heirens, in an "abstract statement of fact" given to his attorneys, already has admitted three murders—the kidnap-killing of 6-year-old Suzanne Degnan, the lipstick murder of ex-Wave Frances Brown and the robbery-killing of Mrs Josephine Ross, a widow.

That Heirens did not kill at least three more was an accident, his confession will relate.

He tried to kill a policeman but his gun misfired.

He shot at a woman through a window and his aim was bad.

He lay in wait with a knife for another victim but the victim did not show up.

Heirens, besides being formally accused of the Degnan and Brown murders, also has been indicted for a series of 29 burglaries and assaults

The number of burglaries he will relate in his confession will total more than 40, it was reported.

Details of some of them are so shocking that they never can be revealed publicly

Many of the burglaries did not turn out to be murders only because the persons whose homes and apartments he looted were not present.

Heirens will say in his confession, it was learned, that when he set out from the University of Chicago campus to prowl at night he was primed and ready to kill.

Heirens, a brilliant student by day, or brilliant enough at least to be a sophomore at 17, spent his days at school and studying. Then, he will tell in his confession, how he usually spent the early evenings with college friends or attending religious meetings to avert suspicion from himself.

Ohio Police Take To Air, Get Man

PARKERSBURG, W. Va.—(UP)—Ohio State police have found that there is more than one way to catch a suspected automobile thief. They successfully used an airplane to apprehend Edgar Leslie Fenton, 26, of Parkersburg.

The police said that they spotted Fendon driving an automobile which had been reported stolen at Belle Valley, O. The airplane was called to find the man, and police trapped him hiding under a bush.

"By the time I got back, with the crowd growing, plenty of excitement, I looked around for Durkin—easy to spot, since he was in uniform," says Jack. "He had evaporated . . . But I found him—he had gone back to finish his shut-eye!"

WESTBROOK PEGLER . . .

NEW YORK — When we have all enjoyed to the last tingle our hypocritical pleasure over the pictures of the extravagant wedding parties of the Garsson crew at which, in time of war, generals and colonels were snapped in attitudes of relaxation; it might be good for our souls to think back and then furtively drop that first stone instead of throwing it.

These people were not alone.

It would be incorrect to say that this kind of social life began soon after the coming of the first New Deal. It had merely lagged a little during the stretch between the Republican boom and the beginning of the memorable war on want in the first year of Mr. Roosevelt.

Then it resumed, starting in Washington, with a new lineup. Restaurants in New York, previously known as headquarters of cafe society, became political resorts frequented by prominent ideologists of the new administration, including an occasional cabinet member, government attorneys, administrators and crackdown mountebanks, enjoying a few months or years of prominence and power.

They were lathered with attention from owners and head-waiters and with publicity from saloon reporters and it was observed early in the great reform that while they were fighting heroically for a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour or $16 a week for the common man, many of these selfless zealots were feeling only vicarious pains in the struggle to emancipate the oiler from his slavery to well-fed clubmen.

If some of the officers garishly depicted in idiotic postures at the Garsson wedding party in New York come up to town on fake orders and pocketed their petty subsistence, letting Garsson pay the bills, let the punishment fit the crime but it was petty venality at worst. How many civilian bureaucrats for years before the great debauch of war-time had found "official business" in New York which took them to the Stork and "21" on government transportation?

These army men are doomed to lasting humiliation if nothing worse while Henry Morgenthau goes uncensored, even unnoticed, though he procured for himself, through the navy, by order of his friend and neighbor, the president, a Coast Guard plane and crew and precious fuel, to fly him to his home for week-ends and back to Washington.

* * *

"The armed services may be disappointing in their lack of 'know how' in the management field," wrote General Robert Wood Johnson, who toiled in the meshes of bureaucracy to spread contracts among the smaller war plants, "but you can be sure, dead sure, of honesty, loyalty and endurance."

That tradition of honesty and the reputation for scrupulous and cautious honesty, avoiding even the appearance of evil, is one reason why these unhappy men are so conspicuous in the revelations. They are being tried by that severe standard whereas politicians and other civilians will be forgiven because they cannot be indicted.

I come back to the miserable historical fact that an administration which entered Washington with the confidence and hope of the people, professing the highest motives and preaching sacrifice and scorn of greed, soon succumbed to the most ordinary temptations.

This did have an influence on others and soon after the shock of Pearl Harbor had been relieved by young marines and blue jackets and boyish flyers, dying in unheard of places, the mad, selfish career resumed.

With that and other past experiences, we should have known what callousness and ingratitude may be expected of human beings and resolved that this time war would not be a debauch at home. But we do not learn and far from presuming to "honor" the dead, the nation, from the government down, may better bow in remorse and shame.

HAL BOYLE . . .

NUERNBERG, Germany—(AP)—German highways today are lanes of barter and pilgrimage.

Farm wives and children stand by the roadside hawking produce, but they let you know at once that they are little interested in your allied marks. Like their brethren in the bombed out cities, they are looking for a straight trade for such items as chocolate, soap, cigarets or wearing apparel.

* * *

It has been more than 14 months since the war ended, yet the roads are still walked by thousands of wayfarers with everything they have in the world on their backs. This backwash of battle will go on indefinitely, a restless tide of human misery fluctuating endlessly between the allied zones, until Germany is put again into some kind of productive order by her conquerors.

* * *

Sprightly, among the bent figures that plod dully along the road shoulders, are a new war-created class—the painted ladies of the autobahns.

They are wayward young German girls who have modernized the world's oldest profession. Their beat, instead of a few city blocks, may stretch along a hundred miles of highway.

Their quarry are the soldier truck and jeep drivers. Dressed provocatively, they stand far out in the highway and boldly try to thumb down any passing army vehicle which contains no officers.

To any soldier who picks them up they quickly make their purpose clear. They seek cigarets, candy or food — supplies which they can easily dispose of for fancy prices on the black market.

If the driver isn't interested, the fraulein cheerily alights and flags down another prospect.

German fields are heavy with harvest. Because of the shortage of farm equipment, whole families from young children to old grandmothers work together to reap the precious grains.

To scare away birds the fields are studded with scarecrows so dilapidated they would stir a wise crow to apoplectic caws of derision.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

Milton Berle is numbered among famous comedians who lately have been dabbling in belles lettres. His compendium of wit bears the title, "Out of My Trunk."

The story from this book which the distinguished critic Harry Hansen, singled out to quote in his review was the one about the interviewer who asked "Do you file your nails?" thereby giving Berle the opportunity to answer, "No, I just throw them away after I cut them."

You don't have to take it seriously, but Berle swears that he once drew pay as a life guard at Rockaway Beach. That episode in his career ended when a bather, going down for the third time, shrieked "Help! Help!" and Berle, on the shore, yelled back, "Swim in a little, mister. How do you expect me to throw a life preserver that far?"

Once Berle tried a new restaurant and liked everything except the bread (which wasn't so scarce at the time.) "I always eat whole wheat," he told the waitress, but she brought white. The next day he reminded her about the whole wheat but was served white again. It happened on three more days. The last night, Berle said, "Just for the heck of it, I'll take white bread." "That's funny," said the waitress, "aren't you the party who always orders whole wheat?"

POLICE KEPT BUSY BY FLOOD OF COMPLAINTS

Fights, Break-ins and Drunks Clog Blotter in City Over Weekend.

Mansfield police were mopping their brows today after one of their busiest weekends in months. They investigated a complaint an hour during the 48-hour period.

Burglars broke into a sporting goods store and stole two rifles and two tennis rackets; some one snatched a $20 bill from a man's hand; somebody lost a package of quilts, and an abandoned scooter was recovered.

But that's only the beginning. Officers scurried from one end of the city to the other during the weekend's wee hours to settle family squabbles, break up fights and to haul in persons charged with intoxication.

In all, 15 persons were booked for intoxication; officers had to investigate 10 complaints labeled "trouble" and settle three fist fights.

There was a report that boys were throwing rocks at Cline avenue paving job lanterns; that there was a "suspicious" car in the downtown area; that bawling children were keeping Mansfield avenue residents awake and that a man's mother was dying in Cleveland and he had to be located immediately.

As the harried cops caught their breath, investigation of the rifle-tennis racket theft at 257 North Mulberry street went forward.

Officers said that a rear door of the building was forced open and an inner door lock was smashed. The rifles were valued at $20 each; the rackets at $10 each. Some $3 in change also was taken.

Meanwhile, officers were also investigating a report by Victor Restelli, 496 Lily street, that two boys snatched a $20 bill from his hand in front of a Harker street grill Saturday night.

Restelli told police that he was just entering the grill to buy a bottle of milk when the money was taken. He couldn't describe the boys.

RULES CITY'S 2 POOLS SAFE

Dr. Wild Sees No Need to Fear Polio Infection at North Lake, Liberty Parks.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, today gave Mansfield's two swimming pools a clean bill of health.

Dr. Wild said that his office has been receiving numerous calls from persons wondering if the pools are safe in light of the fact that two infantile paralysis cases have been reported in the county.

"Pools at Liberty and North Lake parks are absolutely safe," the doctor said. "Water in them is chlorinated and is inspected regularly. In addition, the pools have a recirculating water supply system—a system that is recognized as the best," he said.

"Neither pool's water can be credited with spreading communicable diseases — infantile paralysis or any other disease," Dr. Wild said.

"Diseases can be spread by personal contact at the pools but not through the pools' water," he said. "Every effort is made to prohibit persons with visible infections from using the pools," he said.

STILL 'IN DARK'

Police Need Description of Man in Slugging.

City detectives today were still attempting to get an adequate description of the two men who Friday night slugged Sidney Levitt in the hallway of the race book establishment at 12½ South Main street.

Officers said that they have questioned 10 or 12 persons who allegedly saw the two men who attacked Levitt with pistol butts.

Detective F. Bruce Friday said that he has questioned Levitt in an attempt to identify the men. Friday said, however, that Levitt still sticks to his original story that he doesn't know either of his attackers.

"He said he saw one of them around town several times, but said he doesn't know who he is," Friday quoted Levitt as saying.

Returns In Texas Indicate Run-Off

DALLAS, Tex. —(INS)— Late election returns today indicated that Beauford H. Jester and Dr. Homer P. Rainey, ex-president of the University of Texas, were headed for a run-off election for the democratic gubernatorial nomination in Texas.

Unofficial returns from 235 out of 254 counties gave Jester 349,586 votes to 223,664 for Dr. Rainey in Saturday's primary.

Jester, a farmer-lawyer from Corsicana, held a comfortable lead over his 13 opponents, but apparently did not poll more than the required majority to escape a run-off August 24. Sen. Tom Connally apparently was assured of renomination.

State Guardsmen Find Camp Perry's Too Crowded This Year

Historic Camp Perry, where 60 Mansfield men with Co. M of the Ohio State Guard started a week of training yesterday, bustled with activity today as the Ohio Guardsmen and naval militia settled down to the business of getting their muscles hardened and their "shooting eyes" sharpened for emergency duty when they're needed.

Other northern Ohio units at the training camp include those from Cleveland, Alliance, Ashland, Wooster, Akron, Warren, Canton, Mt. Vernon and Youngstown.

Authorities at the camp said this may be the last year Camp Perry is used by the State Guard. They pointed out that the character of modern warfare makes the closely built-up Camp Perry unsuitable for military training of the future.

Except for the internationally-famous rifle range, said to be the finest on the continent, the camp probably will be abandoned as a military installation.

There are plans afoot to turn the camp with its excellent beach into a state park in the future, and to seek a larger training site for the Guard in the hills of southern Ohio.

The units arrived at Camp Perry yesterday under Brig. Gen. Donald F. Pancoast, Columbus, Ohio adjutant general and also commanding officer of the guard.

Actual training got under way today with emphasis placed on training with the .30-caliber rifle.

The second period of the encampment, to be attended by the remainder of the guard unit, will get under way Aug. 10.

Six and one-half tons of photographic equipment and supplies were moved into the Mansfield Photo Supply at 27 South Main street today, marking the first shipment of supplies since the showrooms opened in February.

Frank J. Goldsmith, owner and manager of the supply house, said today that the plant will be equipped to take care of the needs of all amateur, professional, industrial and commercial photographers.

The wholesale and retail photographic and graphic arts supply concern is the only such establishment within a radius of 75 miles of Mansfield and has been set up to service central Ohio.

BATAVIA SALE STILL PENDING

Officials of Ashland Industry Out of Town; Expected Back Wednesday.

ASHLAND — Negotiations between the Rausch Industries and Chicago banking and financial interests for the purchase of the Batavia Products company, of Batavia, Ill., the concern now under investigation in the Senate, apparently were still pending today.

Neither the president of Rausch Industries, Ray A. Rausch, nor the vice-president, Hal Costello could be reached for confirmation of rumors that the sale was completed recently in Chicago. Both Rausch and Costello reportedly were in Detroit today and expected to go to Chicago.

Rausch Industries formerly was the Simmons Manufacturing company. The plant was purchased from the Wacker company, a Chicago holding company, by Rausch and five other men including Fred M. Echoff, a director in Rausch Industries, who obtained an indefinite option on the Batavia concern.

Rausch and Costello are expected to return to Ashland on Wednesday, a spokesman for the plant said today.

Rausch said last week that his concern has been granted an indefinite option on the property owned by Dr. Henry M. Garsson, which includes two Batavia metal plants and a foundry in Iowa. But he denied that the sale had been completed.

Poison Suspected In Youth's Death

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The body of Daniel Enslow, 16-year-old ward of the Bureau of Juvenile Research, will be exhumed tonight in an effort to learn whether he died of drowning or of poison, Coroner John B. Gravis said here today.

Enslow's body was found floating in a water-filled quarry near here a week ago last Saturday after he and three other boys fled from the BJR home.

Warren Rose, 15, one of the three admitted to juvenile authorities he had stolen chromic acid prison and given some to Enslow in a candy bar after a quarrel.

TOO MANY WEEDS—

Although there are plenty of weeds there's a shortage of weed-cutters. Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said today that his office's phones are kept ringing by persons wanting some one else's weeds cut. The weeds are health hazards—especially to hay fever sufferers. But, although the city has an ordinance which enables it to enforce weed removal, it has no weed cutter, Dr. Wild said. The commissioner said that if someone wants the job—or knows of someone who does—"by all means give us a call."

NO BOUT—

Amused pedestrians and grinning drivers held up traffic on West Third street to watch a fight that never started early this morning. The object of amusement was a small boy holding his dog in an effort to keep him from attacking another dog. The boy's dog, a small terrier-like animal of doubtful heritage, was all set to tackle a huge St. Bernard, which obviously weighed more than the boy and the small dog put together. The Bernard merely watched the pair complacently, fanning the air with his three-foot tail. Finally the big dog plodded off and peace was restored. The boy was Carson Zimmerman of the Children's home. The dog is the home's "fighting" mascot.

ASKS $52,500

Shelby Man Files Action After Traffic Mishap.

Asking $52,500, Fred Garvin, Shelby, today filed action in common pleas court again Steven Bilko, also of Shelby, as the result of injuries received by Garvin and his family and damage to his car in an auto accident last January on State Route 61.

The plaintiff charges that the defendant drove his car on the wrong side of the road near the Richland - Crawford county line Jan. 13, causing a collision.

HELD AFTER CONFESSING TO ATTACK

Battered Body of Attractive Woman Found in Field Near Ohio City.

NEWARK — (AP) — Police Chief Gail Christman said today that a 22-year-old man was being held without charge in the slaying of Thelma Anderson, 17-year-old bride of a day, whose battered body was found in a field on the outskirts of Newark early yesterday.

Another man who had been questioned about the death was released, Christman said.

The youth, who was held in jail pending a report on an autopsy, Christman said, signed a statement acknowledging that he had beaten the girl.

The body of the attractive blond, whose face was battered beyond recognition, was found in a grassy spot along the Baltimore & Ohio railroad lines by James Wilson, a foundry worker taking a short cut to work. The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Harger, identified the body from clothing and jewelry.

* * *

Tells of Drinking.

Christman said the youth in a signed statement told of visiting beer parlors with the girl Saturday evening and then quarreling and fighting with her.

"I remember hitting her and knocking her down," the youth was quoted as saying. "I picked her up in my arms and carried her down over the bank on the south side of the tracks. We started arguing and fighting again and she pushed me and fell to the ground and when I got up I hit her very hard with my right hand, knocking her down. . . . I lost my head and I probably beat her severely as I get awfully mad when I am drinking and lose my reason. I could have kicked her."

The youth stated, Christman said, that he left the girl and later returned. The police chief quoted him as adding: "I do not remember whether I struck her again or not." He said the youth asserted the girl was alive when he finally left her.

Mrs. Harger said her daughter eloped to Greenup, Ky., and was married last March 1, but returned home the following day and hadn't lived with her husband since. Four days later — at the girl's own request — the parents said they filed annulment proceedings in domestic relations court and that a hearing had been scheduled for next month.

The last time Mrs. Harger saw her daughter, she said, was about 6 p. m. Saturday night when the girl left home "to go up street." Later reports indicated that she met a man downtown, she added.

The slain girl's husband, Donald Anderson, works in a downtown store here.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

By SID FEDER
(Pinch-hitting for Hugh Fullerton, jr.)

NEW YORK —(AP)— Mid-west scouts report that while it's true what they say about Michigan and Notre Dame . . . Illinois has that grid talent piled higher than the mortgages on a sports writer's house too . . . Smart-money guys tell you that the real reason for the drop of some six or seven percent in betting at New York tracks isn't that the interest in racing is dying out . . . But because bettors are giving more and more business to the bookies to duck the 16 percent bite by the state, tracks, city and county.

The boys have been having a lot of fun needling Ted Williams about his .080 batting average against the Yankees this year . . . But aren't they kind of overlooking the fact the Red Sox fireman has belted the bomber flingers for a fancy .390 since he came up to the American league in '39?

Assault and Lord Boswell feel that the Dude, in the classic, to them, was very rude.

Local bookmaker tells us he'd have laid 200 to 1 against Assault and Lord B. finishing last and next to last in the Classic . . . Incidentalls, Mrs. Gaal's New Orleans stable won just $22,610 for all of 1945 . . . And along comes the Dude and picks up a neat $76,850 all in one chunk for them in the Classic . . . And how about the Dude, picking up for $4,000 as a plater, bringing home that much hay in the Classic . . . Phil Rizzuto is almost ready to take over the Yankee shortstopping again after his beaning . . . But there's old Frankie Crosetti out there hitting a mere .340 since he's been filling in.

Players Discuss Reforms

Major Leaguers Get Chance to Air Views.

NEW YORK—(AP)—For the first time in the 107-year history of baseball, representatives of all the players in the major leagues will meet with the presidents of the two circuits today to air their views on the contracts under which they work.

Carrying specific instructions from some 480 teammates, the two groups totalling 26 players will discuss reforms and adjustments such as minimum salaries, training expenses and pension funds.

Two representatives from each National league club will meet with President Ford Frick in his New York office. American league representatives, including two men each from New York and St. Louis and one from each of the other clubs, will huddle with President Will Harridge in Chicago.

More than a dozen suggestions are to be made by the two player groups, who then will present them to the owners' six-man steering committee for action Aug. 5.

A pension plan which has met with the approval of many players was drawn up by Marty Marion, shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals.

It would provide for a fund to be made up through payments by both the players and club owners and augmented by a portion of the receipts from the World series, all star games and other league enterprises.

The pensions would be paid to men who reach the age of 45, with $50 a month going to those who played five years and $100 a month to those who spent ten years in the major leagues.

Grays Trip Akron In Big Rally

Four Run Burst in 7th Wins By 8 to 6 Score.

After spotting the Akron Scott-Paige aggregation five runs in the first two frames, Mansfield Grays capped an uphill struggle with a four run burst in the seventh to win an 8 to 6 decision over the visitors yesterday afternoon at Liberty park.

Starter Merle Leedy gained credit for the win although Martin had to pitch the final two innings. Leedy developed a sore arm after limiting the strong Akron nine to five hits in seven frames. He struck out seven.

The Grays broke the scoring ice in the third with a single tally and then added two more in the fifth. Another counter in the sixth sliced the Scott-Paige advantage to one run. The quartet of tallies in the stretch inning clinched the result.

Akron picked up its final marker in the eighth.

Shortstop Burgraff topped the Grays5 13-hit attack with three singles in five trips to the platter.

The Grays will play the Shiloh Lions at Liberty park Thursday night at 6 p. m.

Tigers Defeat Post 72, 4-1

With lanky Stretch Regula and Winbigler combining to turn in a sparkling one-hit mound performance, the Mansfield Tigers notched a 4 to 1 triumph over American Legion Post 72 at Tillman park yesterday afternoon.

Regular retired in the sixth inning after striking out six opposing batters.

The Tigers put the game on ice in the fourth stanza when they hopped on Carter for three runs. They scored again in the seventh while the Legion's lone tally was fashioned in the last half of the sixth.

Ryan and Nikolaus each had a brace of safeties to highlight the Tigers eight-hit attack.

DAYTON —(AP)— A Cleveland man and woman held the state's archery titles today. Emil Pilkula compiled a score of 2,172 to take the men's target event in the Ohio archery tournament yesterday, and Eleanor Maczadlo scored 1,528 to win the women's crown.

Red Sox and Yankees Both Split; Cards Cut Into Brooklyn Lead.

By JOE REICHLER, AP Sports Writer

Unless Cleveland's Bobby Feller or Detroit's Hal Newhouser hits an unexpected decline, there appears a good chance today that the American league will furnish two 30-game winners this season.

Not since 1912 when the immortal Walter Johnson and Smoky Joe Wood reached the 30-victory mark did two great pitchers come along with such peerless parallel performances.

Following on the heels of Newhouser, who became the majors' first pitcher to win 20 games Saturday, Feller racked up his 19th triumph yesterday by shutting out the Washington Senators 2-0 in the opener of a double header. The Indians also won the nightcap 7-4 to advance within three games of the fourth place Nats.

Newhouser, needing only five more victories to join Cy Young, Lefty Grove and Johnson as the only American league pitchers to win 25 or more three years in succession, was idle yesterday as the Tigers divided a double header with the Philadelphia Athletics before a capacity crowd of 51,116 which enabled the Bengals to climb over the million mark in home attendance.

* * *

Hard-luck Dizzy Trout went down to his third straight shutout defeat as Jesse Flores scattered seven bingles in pitching the A's to a 2-0 win in the opener. Frank (Stubby) Overmire spaced seven hits to defeat the Mackmen in the nightcap 6-2.

* * *

The pace-setting Boston Red Sox maintained their 11-game lead over the New York Yankees by gaining an even split with the St. Louis Browns. After Denny Galehouse has stopped them 3-2 in the first game, the Sox stripped six St. Louis chuckers for 13 hits and an 11-4 triumph in the afterpiece.

The Yankees also had to come from behind to break even. Held to six hits in the opener by Johnny Rigney who blanked them 2-0, the New Yorkers hopped on Ralph Hamner and two successors for 11 hits and an easy 7-1 win.

* * *

The second place St. Louis Cardinals narrowed Brooklyn's National league leading margin to a game and a half by blanking the Boston Braves 2-0 while the Dodgers were being humbled By Pittsburgh's Pirates 7-3.

The third place Chicago Cubs advanced to within six and a half games of first place by sweeping both ends of a twin bill from the Philadelphia Phillies 11-3 and 3-1. A seven-inning first frame helped Hank Borowy, returning to the mound after being knocked off the hill Saturday, to his fifth success. Hank Wyse won his 11th in the nightcap.

Despite a pair of home runs by the Giants' Johnny Mize, which raised his league leading total to 22, the Cincinnati Reds downed the New Yorkers twice, 8-3 and 5-4, as Joe Beggs and Harry Gumbert came through with route-going performances. Two homers by Bob Usher and Grady Hatton sent Virgil Abernathy down to defeat in his Major league debut for the Giants. He had been purchased from Minneapolis last Thursday.

CY HASSINGER TOPS MUZZLE-LOADERS

Cy Hassinger copped the weekly muzzle-loading rifle shoot Saturday at the Mansfield club with 58.3 percentage, followed by Howard Freman and Frank Winters.

Results: 30-yard string. Hassinger, won; Freman and E. Wagner; 50-yard rest, Freman, won and E. Adams; 50-yard off-hand, F. Winters, won; Freman and A. Wagner.

Barron Takes All-American

CHICAGO — (UP) — Herman Barron, who has been bucking the big-time golf circuit for a decade, without snaring a lucrative championship, today gave credit to one of his links rivals, Byron Nelson, for the crown he won in the $50,000 all-American tournament with an eight under par 72 hole total of 280 strokes.

Barron, the apt pupil, gained $10,500 by his triumph and the victory put him among the season's top money winners with an aggregate of $20,000. He is outranked only by Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Nelson.

An hour before Barron finished, Ellsworth Vines, the former tennis king, completed his play with a fourth round 69 and a total of 281 strokes.

1,100 ATTEND PARK CONCERT

Orchestra Pays Tribute to 3 Members Killed During the War.

An estimated crowd of 1,100 persons clustered around the bandstand last night at North Lake park to hear a potpourri of classical and light operatic music by the student concert orchestra directed by Eugene Smart.

Outstanding feature of last night's program, fourth in the current series sponsored by the North Lake park association, was the musical tribute given to three orchestra members who lost their lives in the war.

After taps were played in the distance by a solo trumpeter, the orchestra blended with the soloist in softly playing "Lights Out" as roll call was read for former drummer Bruce Graves, trumpet player Charles Jones, and cellist William Smart who didn't return from "over there."

Included on the program were such favorites as the march from "Tannhauser," by Wagner; "Alexander's Ragtime Band," sung by Eleanor Orosan; and "America" with William Michael leading community singing.

Guest Soloist Glenn Pittinger of Shelby was warmly applauded by the audience for his fine trumpet work with a brass quartet on Morton Gould's "Pavanne."

Fred Fuller, president of the Cleveland Jaycees, remarked in looking over the Mansfield port that "Mansfield really has something here."

An added attraction of yesterday's reception at the port was a model plane contest in which six planes were entered from Shelby and four from Mansfield.

Winners in the contest for endurance with the gasoline powered models were Roger Phaler, Shelby, whose model hit a top speed of 30.5 m.p.h. in Class B entries, and Mahlon McLaughlin of Shelby, whose model attained a speed of 38 m.p.h. A free ride in a new plane was given winners.

Among the air tourists taking part in promotion of aviation throughout the state was Mrs. Marian B. Reeder, society editor of the Athens Messenger, sole woman pilot in the group.

L. M. Porch, 71, Looks Back Over 45 Years at Tracy and Avery's

Started as Worker In Warehouse In 1901

By GEORGE SATTLER

LeMoyne H. Porch, a spry, quick-witted man who carries his 71 years lightly, has definite ideas about what he would do if he had his life to live over again.

"Without a doubt," says Porch with a chuckle, "I'd be sitting right here in the same chair I'm parked in now."

The chair mentioned happens to be Porch's own chair in the receiving office of the Tracy and Avery company, where he has worked for over four decades.

"I've heard a lot of people say they wish they had everything to do over again, but that's not for me!" Porch said.

Porch, Tracy and Avery's oldest employe from point of service, will celebrate his 45th year with the company next Monday.

Starting as a warehouse worker in 1901, when the Tracy and Avery building was only three years old, he has also worked as a salesman. At present he is receiving clerk for the company.

"I've had a lot of fun during the past 45 years," Porch reminisced. "It's been interesting to watch the changes that have taken place over the years."

"The biggest change in our business came with the automobile," Porch recalled.

"Before the automobile, our business was conducted mostly by train, with a team and a single horse wagon doing the hauling from our warehouse to the railroads.

"Even salesmen traveled by train to call on customers," he said.

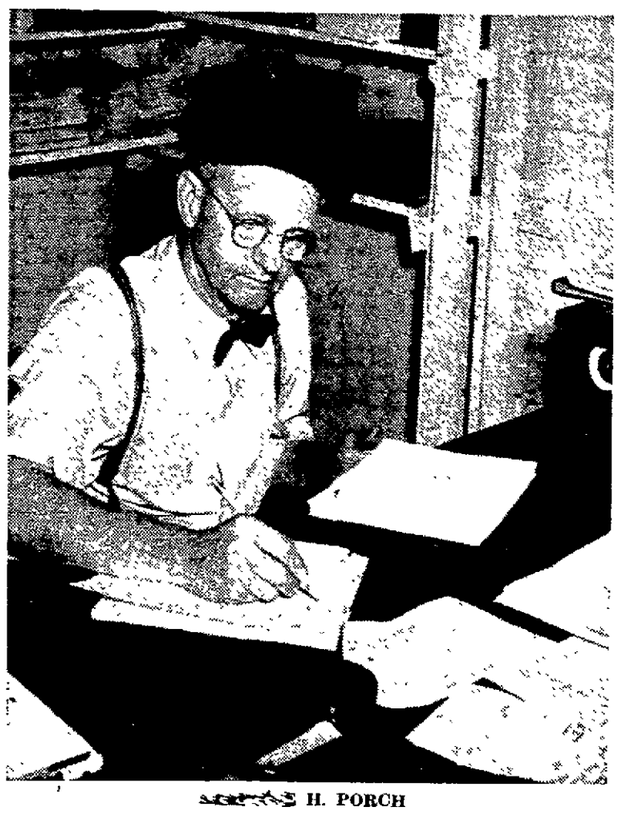
When the company began buying trucks, deliveries were then made directly to the customer's door and finally the horse and wagon passed entirely from the scene.

"In a way I hated to see the horses go," Porch said. "You never had to worry about breakdowns when you had a good team."

In the old days, before automobiles, Porch said that the receiving department only needed one door to carry on its business. Now there are six doors busy all the time.

Porch can remember when Tracy and Avery carried only a few hundred items. Several thousands are now stocked by the firm, he said.

"I can even remember when the first cereal came on the market," he said. "It was called 'Elijah's Manna' and it didn't sell very well.



H. PORCH

"We finally found out that many people refused to buy it because they thought the name sacrilegious. Finally the manufacturers caught on and changed the name.

"We know it now as 'Post Toasties'."

Porch, a family man, lives at 311 Wood street. Father of two sons, he also has two grandchildren.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JULY 29, 1946

With things in such a turmoil on this planet, efforts to spread "civilization" to the moon seem rather premature.

One student of highway hazards observes: "There isn't as much real danger in a loose wheel as there is in a tight driver."

It is gratifying to learn that Congressman May's illness isn't considered serious—that it's only a heart "condition," not an "attack" nor an "ailment"—so he'll probably be able to clear up all this talk that has been going around about him.

Four Nations Will Do the Deciding

WHILE representatives of twenty-one nations are participating in the peace conference that was opened in Paris today, with each entitled to expression of views, it is recognized that the four great powers—the United States, Great Britain, Russia and France—have the immense responsibility of doing the final deciding on controversial issues involving the future peace of the world.

These four nations—with China to be added later, it is hoped—must be depended upon to provide the military strength necessary to protect smaller nations against repetition of such aggressive acts as were committed in the past by Germany, Italy and Japan.

Unless agreements can be reached among the four great powers as to peace treaties with the five former enemy countries, and in matters of territorial bounds, there will be little promise of permanent world peace.

As was said by Secretary of State Byrnes on the eve of his departure for Paris: "It seems to me that the hope of avoiding some new and terrible war greatly depends upon how quickly we can remove the dangerous sources of friction left in the wake of the last war."

Viewed in the light of potentialities of the atomic bomb as a war weapon, it would seem that preservation of peace would be accepted as a "must" accomplishment by all the nations concerned, regardless of their differences in views as to national or international problems—but whether such a common sense attitude will be taken will probably remain in doubt for some months, possibly years.

Business Appeal To Farmers' Sons

SHORTAGE of farm labor continues to be acute, because few of the farmers and hired hands who left the land to go into industry or into the armed services have returned.

Sons of farmers, as a class, are the men whose return would be most appreciated. Any farmer would prefer his own son's help to that of two or three hired men whose only interest in the work would be the amount of cash they could take to town on Saturday night. But most young men would like to have some tangible return for their labor, some future security to work toward. Their real love for the farm where their forebears have labored is a feeling which is tempted by the natural desire to get ahead financially.

This desire is being satisfied in some cases by an arrangement now becoming popular, the "father-son contract." In most of these plans the father, who has accumulated land, tools, and equipment, is given a capital return on these, and as the son adds to the resources by new purchases and improvements, they become part of the son's capital, together with an agreed equity in the land. Then, with a definite salary agreement for both father and son, the way is clear for future development by the ambitious young man.

Like any other enterprise, farming will be a happier and more profitable career when put on a business-like basis.

Some Work While Others Worry

THE WRITER of Topic of the Times in the New York Times is not too disturbed by pessimistic predictions based on splitting of the atom. He reminds readers that about 2,000 years ago Titus Lucretius Carus wrote a book, "About the Nature of Things," in which he said that although the great forces of nature had been held in balance heretofore, there was no reason to think thay would not, by the very nature of the differences of earth, sea and sky, bust up sooner or later with a loud roar and that would be the end of the universe. Things were quite bad in Rome during the last fifty years of the old era, and probably a good many gloomy souls thought the smash couldn't come too soon. The writer goes on:

"Just about that time a small, baldish man, getting on in years, was busy carrying Roman law, order and enlightenment to the outermost bounds of Gaul, whence it was to pass to England and eventually to America. He wasn't worrying about the end of the world. He had work to do.

"Today we can congratulate ourselves that Caius Julius Caesar was not hindered in his job by any fears about the end of the world."

This is a quite appropriate subject for meditation these days. The gloomers of this world have some uses—they sometimes act as a brake on the ill-considered impulses of the Headlong Hal's. But they do not really get people or nations anwhere. It takes people who believe their own lives and those of people in general can be made better if they put their shoulder to the wheel, who really maintain and improve the world.

Steel Shortage Felt In Many Ways

AS A MAN put a nickel in a pinball machine, a friend remarked, "You better save that nickel to buy a brick for the house you are building." He replied, "It isn't brick I am worrying about, it is nails. I can't buy them at any price." And thereby hangs a tale.

Little did the average citizen realize how adversely a strike against the steel industry would affect him. He is finding out now as shortages hit home. He is becoming aware of the need of labor legislation that will outlaw the stoppages of vital industries as a means of negotiating wage contracts.

Anyone desirous of building a new home, buying a new auto, purchasing new equipment made of steel, or harvesting farm crops, is feeling the effect of the shortage of steel caused by strikes.

ARE YOU SURE THIS IS THE RIGHT ADDRESS?

Array of Bewildering Figures Will Serve to Confuse Voters

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THE ELECTION this fall will be a battle of statistics. Never since the redoubtable Bryan covered the land in 1896 with fantastic figures on gold and silver have we had such a prospect

Voters in 500 battles will be wallowing in a swarm of real, false, fantastic and foolish figures. It will be like a plague of locusts shutting out the sun and blinding human eyes.

The poor voter will finally reach for a pencil and vote for the guy with the best voice and the fewest figures.

Certainly he will forever rest in doubt about what has happened in this hectic summer, price wise or any other wise.

The sober fact is that if a candidate or the president or anyone else really presented in a speech the full story of prices and wages, he would be understood by only one in a hundred. Most listeners could not hear him through Because the situation is so complex, so qualified by this or that and so heavy with economic principles that to explain it all would take hours of speech and volumes of paper.

The story will not be a mere recital of things as they will be in future It will be history, prophecy and a history of prophecies—mostly bad prophecies.

Republicans will tell how badly the administration guessed over the past year as to employment, prices and federal finance

They will recount Chester Bowles dire prophecy of what would happen if the OPA expired. They will tell of the Wallace blunders on employment, wages and prices.

They will also point out that the department of commerce mixes propaganda prophecies with its recital of sober statistics. For example, this has just appeared: "Perhaps the most striking aspect of the recent behavior of prices is that the large increases occurred despite the prospect of the reimposition of OPA controls and of a rollback to June 30 levels. Without this prospect overhanging the market, price increases would most certainly have been greater and more general."

This is not factual information. It is an apology for a bad prophecy and a hypothetical guess about something which is not determinable in any known crystal ball.

In the melee, government figures will sink still lower in public esteem. There have been some bad examples of statistical reporting by the government already. That reporting is getting no better.

The current OPA bill will be shown to have been antiquated before it was finished. Whatever happens, nobody will be satisfied. The terrific heavings of nature, which are producing unbelievable crops, throw askew all calculations. Corn, oats and wheat are exceeding records. It won't help much to talk about what they were on June 30, as the bill provides Supply and demand will be the great leveler

One most interesting fact, however, should not be overlooked as the administration is judged this fall. What would have happened if there had been passed the "Full Employment" bill, so earnestly advocated by President Truman?

Under it he would have been required to send to congress last January a complete national budget, with estimates of wages, income, agricultural and business prospects.

We now know that any such mass of figures would be completely cockeyed today. It would have been the funniest book of the century.

For if this strange year of 1946 has taught us anything, it is that such a prediction is impossible to make with a fair chance of accuracy. Republicans would have had nothing to do but draw their speeches from that document. From that folly, at least, Mr. Truman was saved by his enemies

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, July 29, 1926.

"Hiking week" was being observed in city's playgrounds program, and jaunts were devoted to nature study.

Fiftieth anniversary of organization of Mansfield Savings and Loan company was being observed (H B Dirlam had then been secretary for 45 years.)

Diary: "Farming Takes 'Know-How'."

AMONG the farmers of Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, where are the best and the oldest farms of our nation, are a few men who lead the thinking of the others Such a man was my friend J—— whose keen observations and habit of travel—for the good of his church—brought back to his home farm many innovations.

He took me to his barnyard which had a bowl-like concrete base, large, with a berm-like drive around it. In late summer the place was empty, save for a round pile of grass and weeds, topped by stable manure.

He pointed to this place with pride and humility and said, "Here is where our success begins Here is our factory. We throw into it all our hay that spoils, all the weeds along the fencerows, and from the swamps, the clover stuff after combining the seed We mix in layers of cattle and hog manure and sprinkle on lime and phosphate rock and all the cleanings of everything . . . rotted sawdust, butchering wastes, once a month all the wood ashes from the two houses. Nothing is wasted."

"How much stock do you keep?"

"Cattle, 20 head, 5 horses, 50 hogs . . . two big stacks of straw that are worked through the barnyard every winter. Hogs do well nosing head deep in the stuff after a good rain or snow—they mix it better'n we can The rain and snow helps to keep it heating some, that kills the weed seeds. By spring this pile is ten or twelve feet high and the raw material has lost itself so that all through it looks nearly the same. The worms come up from below and the chickens scratch for them . . . we have three times as much good fertilizer as we would get in the ordinary way: it's all ready for plants to use."

"How do you spread it, then?"

"Haul it out and disk it right into the clover—then turn it under. We have 100 acres of farm land, and every field is as good as every other—but it took ten years to make that possible."

"But why is your way better than to use commercial fertilizer?"

He studied a moment. "It's alive," he said. "We can work the land sooner, and it doesn't wash. Neighbors buy their seed grain here because it grows better. Farming has more than the money profit that's in it . . . the fun lies in finding out new things. I'm fortunate in getting to go about the country . . . and I always visit the agricultural conventions, and the experiment farms Whatever they have that's good, I try out here at home. Change in the right direction makes progress."

I thanked him.

Delay In Holding Peace Conference Due to Carefully Planned Tactics of the Russians.

Editor's Note—Drew Pearson is now in Paris, covering the peace conference. This is the first of a series of columns diagnosing one of the most important peace conferences in history.

* * *

EN ROUTE TO PARIS—Today in the Palace of Luxemburg begins the conference on which so many mothers set their hearts, for which so many mothers' sons gave their lives—the conference to win the peace.

Some 13,000,000 men in the American armed forces alone fought four long years—with the hope that it might be the last time human beings would have, to go through the terrible ordeal of war.

Today in Paris comes the climax of their dreams, and already disillusionment has begun to set in. Already the dreams are tinged with nightmare—the spectre of another war.

Here are some of the distressing facts this conference has to face in trying to chart the peace of the world:

1. Historians criticized Woodrow Wilson because he was slow in negotiating peace. But he got started two months after the armistice and finished six months later, a total of eight months after the war. In contrast, it is now almost one year after the armistice with Japan and fifteen months after the armistice with Germany, yet the final peace conference is only getting started.

2. The longer peace is delayed, the more the Allies fall out, the more the other nations forget their gratitude So the longer the delay, the harder it is to negotiate a permanent peace.

3. Russia has deliberately endeavored to postpone the peace. This conference could have been held long ago if the Soviet had not said No.

Russian Delay Tactics.

Moscow's delay tactics were by no means accidental. They were carefully planned, and with three motives behind them:

A—The longer peace was delayed the more time Russia got to nail down its hold on the Balkan satellites—Hungary, Austria. Anti-Russian factions had to be stamped out; pro-Russian factions trained to carry on. This could not be done overnight.

B—The more uncertainty and unrest occurred in the non-Soviet-occupied countries—France, Belgium, the Netherlands—the greater the likely growth of Communism. Unrest breeds Communism, and the spread of Communism is one great aim of Moscow.

C—Finally, Moscow did not want the Red armies converging back to Russia. There wasn't food to feed them, and their quick return risked economic, even political, turnovers. So they were left to live off foreign countries; and as long as no peace treaty was signed, armies of occupation were justified.

Thus, ever since V-J day, Russia has been the greatest obstacle to early peace.

Americans Not Blameless.

In this peace conference, however, not everything is black or white. There is some gray shading in between.

And in real fact, American diplomacy during the early stages of this greatest of all diplomatic endeavors, was just as guilty of sabotaging the peace as the Russians—perhaps more so. I say more so, because we pride ourselves, on being advanced, more alert, more idealistic.

Yet actually, our diplomats were just as woefully unprepared for peace as the army and navy were for war at Pearl Harbor.

When it should have been ready for the most important peace offensive in the history of the world, the state department was caught completely napping.

Congress has spent several months of intensive study to ascertain who was responsible for Pearl Harbor; yet no one has lifted a finger to probe the equally important disaster of our unpreparedness for peace.

If senators probed the files of the state department, however, or even their own files, significant facts would come to light. Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, for instance, has in his files a letter from then Secretary of State Hull dated Oct 21, 1942, declining to give his views on world co-operation. The real fact was that Hull had not even begun to think about the vital task of winning the main objective of the war—world peace—and he could not answer Wiley's letter.

Little Nations Important.

State department files will also reveal interesting insight into the most important factor before the present Paris conference — the presence of little nations.

Their attendance is one of the most important victories achieved by Jimmie Byrnes He had to use all his persuasive charm plus threats to pin down Russia's Molotov on a full-fledged peace conference with the little nations present.

Yet back in 1943, state department files will show that Roosevelt and Churchill had OK'd a comprehensive plan for world peace worked out by the then Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles calling for the participation of smaller nations. They have most to lose by war, most to win by peace, argued Welles, and usually are to be found backing the United States.

FDR and Churchill backed Welles up but later, Cordell Hull took his famous trip to Moscow, the Welles plan was drastically amended. The little nations were dropped. Perhaps this was because of Hull's antipathy for anything authored by Sumner Welles. Perhaps it was Russian aversion—even then—to the smaller nations.

But at that time, we had the diplomatic whip hand over Russia as we never have had since. Russia needed us more than we needed her. We were in a position to bargain. Mr. Hull, however, surrendered this important point.

Wordy Conference Expected.

Later the White House issued a public statement aimed at bringing the smaller nations back into the picture. But it was too late. Not until today, as all the allies sit down at the conference table, have we been able to retrieve the ground lost by that vital mistake.

Knowing he could not bar the smaller nations indefinitely, Molotov has demanded that all essential problems be ironed out by the Big Four in advance. The big question at Paris, therefore, is whether the small nations will now merely sign on the dotted line, or whether fighters like Australian Foreign Minister Evatt will stand up and throw parts of the proposed treaty back in Molotov's teeth. The betting is that a lot of words will be thrown, but no teeth knocked out.

Submits The Record.

Editor News-Journal:

I note in The Mansfield News-Journal of Tuesday, July 23rd, on Page 4 an article entitled "Raises a Question" signed by Wesley W. Purdy, in which he charges, and I quote: "That the House of Representatives voted Saturday on the Atom Control Bill and McGregor was recorded as not voting" Again I quote from Mr. Purdy's statement, "Was he actually in Washingon Saturday, and if so why did he not vote?"

I respectfully refer you to the Congressional Record of Saturday, July 20, copy enclosed, page 9689, Roll Call No. 228, as well as page 9690, Roll Call No 229, which definitely shows that on Saturday, July 20, I was in Washington, I was on the floor of the house of representatives and voted when my name was called, on the Atomic Bomb bill.

It is to be regretted that Mr. Purdy did not check the official record before he made his statement, and by inference, at least, would like to have my people believe I was not taking care of my official duties. I trust you will make the proper correction in your paper. I sincerely trust that the people in my district have faith in the veracity of their congressman and know that he takes care of his duties in a manner which has been satisfactory in the past, and I hope will continue to be satisfactory in the future.

Less Hate and Bitterness In Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala — In the current political turmoil in the South this state offers some compensating relief

It is, temporarily at least, a sort of oasis from the noisome whirlwind that blew up in Georgia and Mississippi where the people got another dose of Gene Talmadge in one case and Senator Bilbo in the other.

Alabama offers somewhat of a refuge from the hate and bitterness and prejudice stirred up in those states that turned them backward again in an ominous reaction.

Also Alabama seems to yield some hope to keep progressivism flickering in one sector in what is, to put it mildly, an off-year for progressivism in the South.

A progressive trend is observed here in a state-wide contest already decided—for governor—and in the predicted outcome of the special election next Tuesday to fill the U. S. senate seat of the late John H. Bankhead.

Alabama has had her fill of elections this year, which probably accounts for a noticeable let-down in interest in the senatorial contest from the high pitch of the governor's race previously. It took two elections to pick a governor, and a run-off may be necessary to select a new senator, which would make four elections within a few weeks.

The run-off for governor resulted in victory for a new sort of political figure. 38-year-old "Big Jim" Folsom, six feet, eight inches tall and 245 pounds in weight.

His election might aptly be described as a people's victory. He was swept into office by the votes of farmers, labor and many not identified with either of these groups who aparently were weary of the old-fashioned politician of the machine type and were ready for a different and fresh figure such as "Big Jim."

He ran on a program of reform which includes a state convention to revise the constitution; abolition of the poll tax; reapportionment of the state, not done since 1900 and sorely needed, increased old-age assistance and tax reforms

It is indicated that the people will turn again toward progressivism in picking a new senator. Rep. John Sparkman of Huntsville, Democratic whip of the house, who has the most progressive record of the three leading candidates, seems to have the edge.

Despite the manifest falling off of interest in politics, this race is being hotly contested. The candidates are chasing each other up and down the state.

There is demogoging here, too, but not on the low order recently seen in Georgia and Mississippi. It is being indulged in by the other congressman seeking Senator Bankhead's seat, Rep. Frank Boykin, of Mobile. He is exploiting the British loan and shipment of food to Europe in a manner more familiar this year to the midwest. Also he is praising the Townsend old-age pension plan

There will be no general voting by Negroes in Tuesday's primary, as in Georgia last week. Some few will vote but many who sought the franchise have been disqualified on one pretext or another. This issue, so influential in Georgia, has not been created here as it was by Georgia's Gov. Arnall when he called on the people to support the Supreme Court decision banning the "white primary."

Congress Credited With Two Achievements.

WASHINGTON—In the closing days of the session, congress has taken two long steps toward catching up with the present. Both these measures carry so much hope that it is possible to forget, for a time at least, the bickering, the confusion and the dark prejudices that overhand our world.

No 1 is, of course, the measure creating a civilian commission for domestic control of atomic energy. The importance of this step and its meaning for the future is incalculable.

No 2 is the reform of congress itself Thanks to the skill and diplomacy of Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin and Rep. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, the congress has cut away a lot of the dead wood out of past centuries.

The modernization provided under the La Follette-Monroney bill should go a long way toward making congress more responsive and responsible.

Atomic control was long delayed. Almost a year has passed since the first atomic bomb used in warfare was set off over Hiroshima. Now, at last, control over this immeasurable force is in the hands of the civil government of the United States, where the founders of the country intended such controls to rest. Atomic energy is no longer just a weapon of destruction.

Up until the last moment, there was a danger that heedless, ignorant men would wield their hatchets on the infinitely complex machinery of atomic fission and send us all to kingdom come. While rejection of a conference report is rare, leaders in the house were fearful that die-hards might succeed in sidetracking the bill before it got over this final legislative hurdle.

House conferees had yielded to the senate on several important points. Most important of all was the agreement that the five members of the control commission should all be civilians. In turn, the senate conferees conceded the relatively minor point that the director of the military applications division under the commission should be a member of the armed forces.

But the danger point was in the patent provisions. Here, too, the house has given way and yielded to the senate's insistence that the commission have sole power to license patents.

House Republicans who voted for the original bill declare that this would mean communizing the United States.

Behind this house bogey that might at the last minute have undone the work of months was an interesting lobby. Judging from the telegrams that came to them, senators believed the lobby was made up of a ring of patent lawyers, aided and abetted by certain forces within the National Association of Manufacturers.

History is likely to link these two measures together. Congress, at the moment it moves to restore the traditional balance between military and civilian controls, moves to reform itself. That is reason enough to put out the flags.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

Though you may think a thing is so,
Don't be too positive you know.
—Sweetvoice the Sparrow.

"Are you looking for something, Peter? Perhaps I can help you," said Sweetvoice the Vesper Sparrow.

Peter Rabbit, who had been hopping about this way and that way, looking in all the bushes and small trees in that part of the Old Pasture, looked at the modestly dressed little Sparrow with the white outer tail feathers and shook his head. "You can, but you won't," said he

"How do you know I won't? You haven't asked," replied Sweetvoice.

"I know you won't, so why waste my breath asking?" said Peter.

"You never can tell until you try," replied Sweetvoice. Tipping back his head a wee bit, he sang the lovely little song that has given him his name.

When it ended Peter looked up at him a bit mischievously. "All right, I'll ask." said he. "Have you and Mrs. Sweetvoice a nest in the Old Pasture?"

"Of course," replied Sweetvoice. Is that all you want to know?"

"No," said Peter promtly. "I want to know where it is. Where is it?"

"That's another question. Why do you want to know?" retorted Sweetvoice.

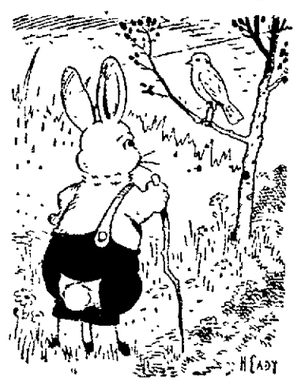
"Because," began Peter and stopped. He couldn't think of a good reason for wanting to know where that nest was. It was just to satisfy his curiosity, and that wasn't a good reason at all. "Oh, I just want to know," he finished lamely.

The bright little eyes of Sweetvoice twinkled. "Have you looked for it?" he asked.

Peter is nothing if not honest. "Yes," said he bluntly. "I've looked in every bush and tree in this part of the Old Pasture and all I have found are two old nests made last year."

"Are you sure you looked in every bush?" asked Sweetvoice, his bright eyes full of mischief that Peter didn't see. "Perhaps you missed a few. Mrs. Sweetvoice is very clever. Sometimes I almost have to hunt for that nest myself. Yes, sir, Mrs. Sweetvoice is clever, very clever." With this Sweetvoice flitted off among the bushes and Peter lost sight of him almost at once.

For a few minutes Peter sat right there. Should he go home to the dear Old Briar-patch or should he look again for that nest? Not being able to find that nest he wanted all the more to find it. He had a feeling that he was being fooled. No one likes to have that feeling. No one likes to be fooled.



"You never can tell until you try," replied Sweetvoice

So, presently Peter was off again to look in the bushes. He would make sure not to miss a single bush. Once he caught a glimpse of a white-edged tail disappearing among the bushes and hurried in that direction. He had no better luck. He began to feel a little disgruntled. That is a sort of cross feeling you know. He had that feeling the more so because he knew that that nest was none of his business.

When at last he got back to the fence post where Sweetvoice liked to perch and sing there was the little Sparrow. "Did you find the nest?" he asked teasingly.

"No," replied Peter sharply. "I don't believe you've got a nest, not in this part of the Old Pasture anyway."

"Mrs. Sweetvoice says you passed right by her without even speaking," said Sweetvoice. His eyes twinkled.

"Huh! You can't fool me," said Peter.

"Perhaps I can't, but she can. In fact she has fooled you. She is clever, is Mrs. Sweetvoice, a very clever person. I'm not surprised that you didn't find the nest. You didn't look in the right place, that's all," replied Sweetvoice and burst into song.

Barclay On Bridge

When opposed by a superlatively keen card-reader, it is often better for a declarer to play his cards naturally, rather than try to mislead the defense by tricky tactics. Playing on a trick the highest card you can afford is sometimes more enlightening to the opposition than using the natural lowest card. If he can tell from the cards on the trick that somebody is playing falsely, he can be pretty sure it is you instead of his partner. And he will usually figure out what illusion you are striving to create.

At every table of a duplicate game, South was the declarer at 4-Hearts and every West opened his club K. At every table but two South made the natural play of the 2. Where West saw the 2 and 3 on the trick, he could be sure that either East had a singleton and South three cards, or else South had a singleton and East three cards. Since South had already located nine of his cards by the bidding, and East had given no information on his, West decided South was more likely to hold the singleton. So he shifted then to the diamond J on the second lead. East won that, but the defense could get only one more trick, as trumps were cleared and the discard of a club limited the defenders to just one more trick.

At one table where South falsecarded with the Q, West fell for it and decided it was a singleton, so shifted to a diamond and thus helped declarer home. But at the other table where the Q was played, West was a real card-reader, Edgar F. Tierney, of Springfield, Mass. He reasoned thus: "East having played the 3, and the 2 not appearing, he is either giving a high-low from the 3 and 2, or has a singleton. For if East had three cards, they would have to be the 2, 3 and 8, in which event he would have played the 2, his lowest." So Mr. Tierney repeated clubs and beat the contract.

Fall Rehabilitation of Phlox Plantings

By DEAN HALLIDAY

As most gardeners know, phlox planting if left to shift for themselves rapidly go down-hill. Phlox that is permitted to reseed itself rarely comes true to color, or, in other words, the plants "go native."

Phlox, now known and loved in nearly every garden, was developed from the wild species of our own countryside. As a filler for the flower border in almost any garden, it is economical, beautiful and most satisfactory.

It grows easily and multiplies rapidly. It can be propagated in various ways—by the division of old clumps, by root cuttings and by cuttings made from young shoots.

A quick method of propagating choice phlox is by means of root cuttings taken in October. Cut the longer pieces of root into 3-inch pieces, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Plant these root sections in a shallow trench, on a slight slant, taking care to keep the top, or cut end of the root uppermost. Cover the roots an inch deep with a sandy loam or any good light soil mixture. After the soil freezes, mulch lightly. By next June or July the new phlox plants will be ready to set out in the garden. The parent plant from which the root cuttings are taken can be replanted.

While phlox can be divided in spring, most gardeners get best results in mid-August. The top growth should be cut back to within several inches of the soil, to make handling easier. When dividing the clump, discard the hard woody center, and only use the new growth on the outside, as illustrated. Leave three or four young stalks to each division and replant one foot apart.

If phlox cuttings are to be used for transplanting, they should be made in early spring. Each should be 5 to 6 inches long, with lower leaves removed.

New Kitchen Gadgets Are Shown in N. Y.

NEW YORK —(UP)—A garbage can that tips its own lid for refuse, a dinette table that disappears between meals, and an ironing board that keeps clean sheets off dirty floors were unveiled this week in the post-war kitchens of a New York store—but the "push button" electrical kitchen didn't show.

The garbage can offers "no hands, no feet" convenience by means of a chain reaction gadget (non-atomic).

The pail is set in the door of an under sink cupboard. The lid is attached to a link chain contrivance which tips it up when the door is opened, sets it back again when the door is closed. Just as reliable as the light in the refrigerator, too."

The atomic garbage cupboard and other early bird post-war gadgets are on display with a series of planned kitchens which Macy's is prepared to custom build quick from standard factory units.

They recommend an outlet in every possible spot—to accomodate the electrical do-alls as soon as they come along.

The dinette table, inspired by a roller top desk, but not corrugated, is built into a one wall kitchen unit without taking up an inch of possible drawer or cupboard space.

When not in use, the steel legs form a frame for a double cupboard, the table itself is rolled down behind the cupboard. The legs are on castors and the roll away leaves permit the table to be pulled out small or large depending on need. There's a drawer in it, too.

The trough that keeps the clothes off the floor during ironing is part of the cabinet which conceals the board against the wall when not in use.

When the board is pulled out, the lower half of its metal case slings underneath it just short of the floor.

For following a cookbook without splattering the ingredients all over it, the store offers a simple book hanger to hitch over any convenient cupboard handle. A pair of narrow vertical rods holds it open.

Sugar and flour binds with sifter openings are slung over a cupboard shelf on runners, pull out like drawers to empty directly into mixing bowl or measuring cup.

The laundry—upstairs rather than basement variety—was a dream. Reading clockwise across three walls, clothes chute, sorting shelf, single sink, washing machine, dryer (a twin to the washer in size and appearance), turn corner, automatic ironer, turn corner, shelves and hanger bar for completed laundry, the trick ironing board.

Next year—we can hope—the push button kitchen.

Use Your Head to Fit Your Personality

Worldly. Because Claire Trevor, co-star with Pat O'Brien and Herbert Marshall in RKO Radio's "Crack-Up," is noted for her sophisticated bearing, a large dramatic hat was designed for her. Note that the materials used are the same as for the smaller hat: black milan, roses and ribbon, but that in this case the brim is wide, to shade the star's striking eyes, with two huge cabbage roses set on a shallow crown and snared in front with wide ribbon bows.

Sweet. Barbara Hale, co-star with Robert Young and Frank Morgan in the RKO Radio comedy, "Lady Luck," poses in a little bonnet of straw and flowers that sits back on her head and frames the youthful charm of her fresh face. Of black milan straw, it has a narrow up-turned brim on which is perched a row of small roses and leaves of ribbon. A light, back-veil surrounds all in an aura of feminine softness and makes it perfectly enchanting for wear with summer black, daytime prints and informal dinner costumes.

Your special kind of charm is often in your hat. The sophisticated lady goes the limit on drama with a large, elegant affair atop her careful coiffeur. The sweet type will find it pays pretty dividends to stand by the off-the-face or small-brimmed hat. For girls who think there should be a common meeting ground between them, two Hollywood stars illustrate how hats made of the same basic elements can be cleverly contrived to fit the individual personality.

Washington Letter

—By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—Daisy Charles has her graying black hair parted in the middle and drawn tightly back into a knot at the nape of her neck. She wears glasses. She is a little woman, but brittle and with an unswerving determination. Her tiny, slender hands are strongly expressive.

She was wearing Indian dress, with a sari or long piece of material draped under one arm and caught in folds on the other shoulder. It was wine colored and pure silk, handwoven with a gold border.

I had lunch at the National Press club with Daisy. Mrs. Rukumani Iangar, also of India, and Mrs. May Jainu-Deen of Ceylon. The women were in the United States on a Rockefeller Foundation scholarship to observe public health and nursing methods. They had just finished a year's course in these subjects at the University of Toronto. In August they will go to England and thence home to put into practice what they have learned.

Daisy Charles is a Christian, named after missionary godparents. Her great grandfather was pastor of a mission church in Mysore state.

She was educated in Travancore schools and studied nursing in Madras. In Mysore, with its population of 6,500,000, she will be superintendent of public health nurses.

* * *

Mrs. Iangar, younger, with pretty, dark eyes and a rosy smile, is from Travancore state, which has a population of 5,500,000, and until now has had no public nursing service. A Hindu in religion, she will head a nursing school.

Mrs. Jainu-Deen is also young and very pretty. She is vivacious, witty and sure of herself. She is a wealthy Christian. Her husband represents the Bata shoe interests and several American firms in Ceylon. They live on a vast and beautiful tea estate in a modern house that beats Hollywood.

She wore a great deal of jewelry, a necklace of wooden beads carved from a native tree and scores of golden bracelets, handcarved. She returns to Ceylon to be in charge of training public health nurses.

All the women were in dead earnest over the opportunity lying before them. There is a great need in India and Ceylon for better nursing methods. They had great hope for the advancement of public health. All over India nurse associations are springing up.

"Nothing but education will do the job," says Daisy, expressing satisfaction over the fact that in 1947 India will have compulsory and free public education for all children through 14 years of age.

The menu the day of the luncheon listed "veal curry a la Indienne," but none of the women seemed interested. They all ordered strictly American dishes and then doused them with black pepper and tabasco sauce.

CLASS TO MEET.

The Ruth Circle class of the First Christian church will hold a picnic at South park tomorrow noon.

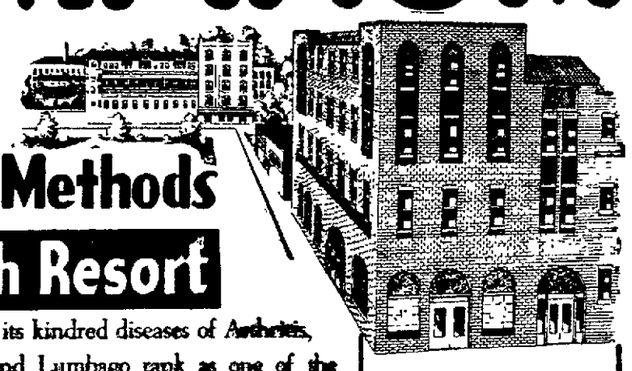
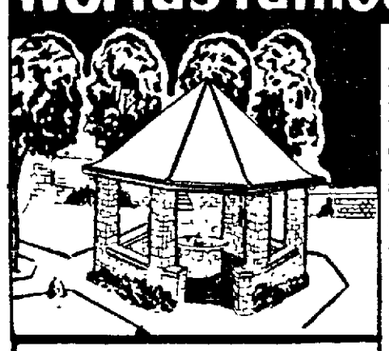
RHEUMATISM
Arthritis-Neuritis
Sciatica-Lumbago
Treated by Non-Surgical Methods



For 26 years the Ball Clinic has specialized in the treatment of Rheumatism. Thousands of sufferers have been successfully treated.

World's Famous Health Resort



WORLD'S FAMOUS HEALTH WATERS

Nature has provided here in Excelsior Springs a greater variety of mineral waters than in any other mineral water Spa in the world. Health seekers from all parts of the world are confirming the startling stories of almost miraculous recoveries to be found in these waters. Above is a mineral water pagoda located on our own grounds.

Rheumatism and its kindred diseases of Arthritis, Neuritis, Sciatica and Lumbago rank as one of the leading causes of illness because sufferers from these conditions regard the first aches and pains as trivial and unimportant instead of realizing that these very aches and pains may result in serious disease . . . dangerous to life and ruinous to your health and future happiness.

Pain and distress are nature's warning that something is wrong with your system . . . something that if let go may lead to serious complications that may result in permanent injury. The parts of your body affected by pain are ONLY THE LOCAL SYMPTOMS of what may be systemic or chronic constitutional disease.

If you have long suffered from Rheumatism or the kindred diseases of Arthritis, Neuritis, Sciatica or Lumbago and have found no permanent relief . . . then take time out today and investigate the Ball new type, modern, trustworthy, non-surgical treatment that has helped so many and which may mean much to your future health and happiness.

HOME TREATMENT USUALLY PROVES OF SMALL BENEFIT

Because Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, Sciatica and Lumbago are constitutional diseases it is usually futile for sufferers to treat themselves at home. Drugs and Medicines that give temporary relief from your aches and pains will not do one bit of good toward relieving you of the causes of your troubles.

The very nature of the causes and the complexity of the diseases are such that only the most highly skilled treatments can be depended upon for lasting results. The sooner you avail yourself of the kind of treatment your condition requires . . . the sooner you will be on the road to better health.

Remove Poisons from the System

The first principle of the Ball Clinic method of treating Rheumatic conditions is to go directly to the cause of your suffering and start the removal of those poisons or conditions that are in your system and which are causing your suffering.

Repair of the damage that has been done the body of the sufferer is a problem in treatment that sometimes requires several methods of treatment. These various methods of treatment are all available at the Ball Clinic and at the same time and price.

FREE Diagnosis and Examination

On your arrival here we first make a complete examination without charge. Each doctor who examines you is an experienced specialist in his line. There is absolutely no charge for this examination. You are told frankly what treatments you need and what it will cost. YOU DECIDE THEN WHETHER OR NOT YOU WILL TAKE THE TREATMENTS WE ADVISE.

LOW COST TREATMENT

The cost of treatment varies according to the severity of your case and the accommodations that you select. We will always advise you the approximate cost of treatments.
